HEAVY DAILY LOSSES.

First issue of Arthur Pearson's London Daily Express said to have cost $200,000.

Arthur Pearson, proprietor of the London Daily Express, the most recent of the half-penny London journals, has announced that there is a loss of $1,250 per day on the paper. The first issue, taking into account the cost of the plant and the arrangements for the staff, cost him $200,000, and he computes that it will need $1,250,000 and two years' close work to enable him to turn the corner.

As a sort of warning to any possible successor in the same field, he predicts that the next man who undertakes to establish a London daily will have to lay out $2,500,000 before he can place it on a paying footing.

No doubt Mr. Pearson is sparing no expense to make his enterprise successful, but the evident maxim of the Daily Express—"No day without its sensation"—is not calculated to increase public confidence in the genuineness of its "news." The promoter had an extraordinary stroke of good fortune in getting a personal message from Emperor William for the initial issue, but, on the strength of this familiarity with greatness, the whole staff seems to have felt at liberty to cut yellow sensational journalism.

The Daily Express has a Shanghai correspondent of amazing prowess, and only the other day he secured what purported to be a message to the western world from Emperor Kwang Shai. It would be libelous to say that the message was not authentic, but such prodigies of journalistic achievement have their drawbacks.

COMPROMISE ON TURRET PLAN

Three New Warships to Have Superimposed Turrets and Two the Quadrilateral.

Secretary Long has approved the findings of the naval board recommending that three of the five new battleships shall be built with superimposed and waist 8-inch turrets, and that the other two of the new battleships shall have quadrilaterally arranged 8-inch turrets.

The report of the board says: "In view of the strong minority of five members, Capt. Barker dissenting from either proposition, it was finally decided to recommend three battleships with superimposed 8-inch turrets and two with four independent 8-inch turrets arranged quadrilaterally. This was agreed to by 12 of the 13 members constituting the board, Naval Constructor Taylor only voting against it."

Constructor Taylor in his dissenting report says: "To divide these vessels between two types is to definitely advertise to the world that although we have completed two superimposed turret vessels, we do not know whether or not they are better than if they had been built with separate turrets."

ACCEPT SHAKESPEARE'S BUST.

American Gift to the Memorial at Stratford-on-Avon Is Presented.

In behalf of the family of the late William Page, Sir William Treloar presented to the trustees of the Shakespeare memorial the well-known bronze bust of Shakespeare, executed by the former president of the National Academy of Design of New York. The governors of the memorial gratefully acknowledged the gift.

George Wyndham, the parliamentary secretary of the British war office, who is a Shakespearean scholar, wrote regretting his absence, and saying that every student of Shakespeare would be grateful to Mr. Page's family for this interesting addition to the many gifts England owes to the generous enthusiasm of the poet's admirers in America. Sir Henry Irving, also regretfully absent, wrote: "Shakespeare is one of the great bonds of concord between American people and our country, and when a new token of their homage to him comes from the hands of a distinguished American artist we share their pride and gratification."

AN ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Coming Marriage of Daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan to Col. Herbert Livingston Satterlee.

Col. Herbert Livingston Satterlee's engagement to Miss Louise Pierpont Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, has been formally announced. Mr. Satterlee is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Satterlee, of 21 East Twenty-eighth street, and a nephew of Dr. E. Leroy Satterlee, also of New York. His family is one of the oldest in New York society. Soon after he graduated from Columbia university and the Columbia law school he entered the law office of Evans, Beaman & Choate as a clerk. When William M. Evans was elected United States senator he took young Satterlee with him to Washington as his private secretary. Mr. Satterlee was promoted to the position of managing clerk in Mr. Evans' office, and is now one of the members of the law firm of Ward, Hayden & Satterlee.

Meat for New York Charities.

One of the specifications of the contracts made by New York city for its charitable institutions is that all of the meat shall be killed and dressed in New York state. This year 2,353,000 pounds will be used.

A Point in Their Favor.

It may always be said in favor of composite pictures of girl graduates, says the Chicago Times-Herald, that the girls needn't be afraid they will be recognized.

Victory at Last.

For ten long years I was a sufferer with kidney dyspepsia and rheumatism disease. I treated with many Comenius doctors; took patent medicine; no results whatever until I discovered and took ONE BOTTLE OF DENN'S SURE, SAFE AND SPEEDY CURE. In three days I threw down my crutches.
